

Ollando Brown is a fourth-year student at Saint Mary's University (SMU) who is actively involved in his community. Born and raised in Kingston Jamaica he left his home country to pursue his degree in Computing and Information Systems and a minor in Psychology. He hopes to pursue a job in data security or software development where he can help other. His passion for helping people lead him to run for the board of directors (B.O.D) at SMU which is a part of the student governing body where he now represents the students as one of their B.O.D. With support from his friends and family he wanted to reach a wider community so he volunteered with Co-curricular records and worked on various projects such as Halifax Dump and Run, Better Business Bureau Torch Awards etc.. He is also involved in the development of the WillsApp (as team lead) along with 3 team members (Gilroy Gorden, Tapiwa Munyanyi and Dominic Collie). This app is web based and helps to bring legal aid to novascotians. In his spare time he likes to have cook-outs and play dominoes with his friends.
