

Small Claims Court Navigator Pilot Project

Free Legal Information Clinic for People thinking about going to Small Claims Court without a lawyer

Are you dealing with a conflict without a lawyer and do not know what to do?

Are you considering going to Small Claims Court to start or defend a claim?

Do you have questions about the process or how to get started?

Would you find it helpful to talk to someone who can answer your legal information questions?

You can book a meeting with a small claims court navigator who will be pleased to talk to you about your situation and provide legal information to assist your decision-making.

What is a Small Claims Court Navigator?

This is a non-legal volunteer community member who has received training on legal information to assist a person who is considering going to Small Claims Court without a lawyer.

The Small Claims Court Navigator is NOT a LAWYER. The Public Navigator is impartial, does not provide legal advice and keeps your information fully confidential.

You will receive information on how to prepare for Small Claims Court, assistance with form filling, and be provided with resources that may help you decide whether to go to court. Individuals who participate in the free legal information clinics with public navigators will be asked to provide their feedback on the meetings. This feedback will be critical to making this project helpful.

The Small Claims Court Navigator service is the first of its kind in Canada. It started in Bridgewater to serve the needs of those living on the South Shore of Nova Scotia on a pilot basis.

Book a meeting with a Small Claims Court Navigator at a Free Legal Information Clinic Contact: _____

Legal Information Society of Nova Scotia (LISNS)
1663 Brunswick Street
Halifax, NS B3J 3Z6